Houston, TX -- With the exponential growth of independent music producers across North America Indie Extreme, LLC www.indieextreme.com , a newly formed company that provides major label resources to independent labels and artists, and In Stone Music Distribution, LLC www.instonemusic.com , an independent distributor servicing independent coffee shops, gift shops and non-traditional music outlets, have combined resources to better serve the emerging independent music industry.

Indie Extreme provides resources, along with administrative and management support services for independent record labels. These resources are available to artists and labels across the globe. As an independent music distributor, In Stone provides the finest latin jazz, acoustic folk, and eclectic world music. Coffee shops, gift shops and other fine stores will find distinct sounds to create their own unique environment with music by some of the most talented emerging musicians from around the globe to sell to their clientele. In Stone is also developing an online system to enable artists to monitor their sales and inventory directly. Artists will also be able to access retailer data base so they can contact the shops to arrange performances or CD signings. The system will track which retailers are selling CDs most providing a key component for an artist to know what cities are building a fan base.
